ANOTHER FIGHT FOR HECHLER NOW

Grand Jury Returns a Second True Bill Against Democratic Nominee.

Henry C. Hechler, Democratic nominee for the trusteeship of Henrico county, was reindicted yesterday morning by the grand jury on the charge of violating the election laws. With him was also indicted Newton L. Gentry, his son-in-law, against whom is a similar charge.

Having escaped with comparative ease one indictment on the same ground, Mr. Hechler now has a harder fight on his hands, for the second true bill, as far as technicalities are concerned, is apparently practically unassailable. The indictment states specifically that Mr. Hechler was a candidate for the trusteeship, and that the men whose taxes he is alleged to have paid, did vote.

Voting under these conditions is in itself a violation of the law, since the statute specifically states that voters must pay their taxes in person. Had they been charged and indicted for this, the grand jury would have been justified in returning a true bill. Mr. Hechler could probably not have been indicted.

Will Begin To-Day.

The second presentation against the Democratic nominee contained about twenty counts, each stating specifically that money was paid by Mr. Hechler for another. The indictment against Mr. Gentry contains about ten counts.

The two bills were returned by the grand jury between 12 and 1 o'clock. Judge Scott dismissed the grand jury after thanking them for their services, and the hearing of Mr. Hechler was set for 10 o'clock this morning.

The trial will hardly make decided progress to-day, as it is probable that counsel for the defense will consume the day in making motions to quash or to demur. For that reason the jury was excused until Monday, when court will reconvene and the trial will begin, barring other disposition of the case.

Judge Scott again asked that he be relieved from presiding in the case, and Mr. Wendenburg, when conducting the prosecution, hearing that Judge T. W. Harrison of Winchester, was in the city, having returned from the expedition, Governor Harrison designated him to sit in the trial.

Mr. Harry M. Smith will conduct the prosecution, as before.

Turnpike Case Still Pending.

The case of W. A. Hammond against the Brook Turnpike Company for alleged damage to his property in the Chesapeake Bay Railway Company's charges, acquired the turnpike without giving him an opportunity for a hearing, was before the court yesterday. Mr. Hammond's counsel moved to set aside the orders in the original proceeding, and asked leave to file a petition for rehearing.

The Brook Turnpike Company moved the court to quash on the ground that no notice had been given to the company, and that the motion and order of notice to be served on the Brook Turnpike Company, returnable on October 25. Judge Scott will reserve the matter for further consideration.

OLD SOAKERS

Get Saturated With Caffeine.

When a person has used coffee for a number of years and gradually declined in health, it is time the coffee was left off in order to see whether or not that has been the cause of the trouble.

A lady in Huntsville, Ala., says she used coffee for about 10 years, and for the past 20 years has had severe stomach trouble. "I have been treated by many physicians but all in vain. Everything failed to give relief. Was prostrated for some time, and came nearly dying. When I recovered sufficiently to partake of food and drink I tried coffee again and it soured on my stomach."

"I finally concluded that coffee was the cause of my troubles and stopped using it. I tried tea in its place and then milk but neither agreed with me; then I commenced using Postum, had it properly made and it was very pleasing to the taste."

"I have now used it four months, and my health is so greatly improved that I can eat almost anything I want and can sleep well, whereas, before, I suffered for years with insomnia."

"I have found the cause of my troubles and a way to get rid of them. You can depend upon it, I appreciate Postum. There's a Reason." Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

DRINKS CARBOLIC ACID BY MISTAKE

C. G. Griffin, of 1321 West Clay Street, Dies in Fearful Agony.

Sitting on the bottom step of the hall stairs in the house in which he and his wife were boarding, 1321 West Clay Street, his face drawn and white, his hands clenched and his whole body quivering, C. G. Griffin said to Mrs. J. L. Wilkinson, the landlady, at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon: "I have just drank something out of a bottle, but I don't know what it was. Send for Dr. Nuckols quick, I'm dying."

Upstairs was a half-pint whiskey bottle, labeled "High Grade Whiskey," and over this was another label: "Poison. Blanks. The Prescription Druggist, corner Randolph and Beverly Streets," which told the tale.

Mrs. Wilkinson hurried out and telephoned to Dr. Nuckols. The stricken man followed her, shrieking and struggling. Twice he knocked her down, and then she called for help. A neighbor responded, and it was with the greatest difficulty that they could control him. He fought and talked, but he was in a semi-conscious condition, and, except the words he had said to Mrs. Wilkinson, they could not understand what he meant. Dr. Nuckols arrived within fifteen or twenty minutes, but the emetics he administered proved unavailing. Griffin died before the ambulance surgeon arrived.

All the evidence points to the accident theory. Dr. Taylor, the coroner, was called in, and gave it as his opinion that Mr. Griffin's death was due to his drinking carbolac acid by mistake.

Mr. Griffin had been suffering with a violent headache all day. At half-past 10 in the morning he went to his work, as usual. He returned later, saying he was too ill to work.

At 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon Mrs. Wilkinson went to inquire how he was getting on. The windows of his room were closed, and a fire was burning. Thinking that it might be too warm, Mrs. Wilkinson invited him to come downstairs, where it would be more pleasant. She hurried into the kitchen, and just as she got there she heard a stumbling noise in his room.

She ran back into the hall, and there found him on the steps. In an hour after he had passed through the most fearful agony he was dead.

His wife is away, visiting Mr. Griffin's parents in Halifax county, having left the city on Monday morning. She was immediately notified by telegraph, but it will be impossible for her to arrive before 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. Griffin was employed as a driver for the Porter Brewing Company. He had just been promoted to the charge of the stables, and was taking much interest in his new work. His domestic life was happy. He had been married two years, and was survived by his wife and a young daughter, his mother and stepfather, and by several brothers and sisters. He was a native of Halifax county, where he was born about thirty-three years ago. He was a member of the Brotherhood of the Brewery Workers' Union and also a member of the tribe of Red Men.

DOUBLE OVERHEAD SYSTEM WAS KILLED

derment of the company. Two officers of the company it was explained, were out of town, and another, in a letter, said he understood that the machine would be secret.

Superintendent Bolling, of the Water Department, admittedly the ablest man in the service of the city, has consistently maintained all along that the only way by which the pipes can be protected from electrolysis is either by the use of the double overhead metallic underground system or by the use of the former because it would be least expensive to the street car companies. "There must be provision," he said yesterday, "for the return of the current. The bonding of the rails is not satisfactory, as experience has shown. Since 1888 the double overhead system has been operated in Cincinnati without the least damage to the pipes. At one point in Cincinnati 750 cars pass in an hour, and yet there has been no evidence of electrolysis. The same plan is in use in the District of Columbia and in Havana, which the government required."

With the bonding plan the streets are constantly opened for the fire, and even with what is claimed to be a perfect arrangement the current quickly destroys them all along the line. It has been made here by experts, and Mr. Bolling has studied the problem carefully for years, and his naturally his opinion is entitled to consideration.

PASSENGER AGENTS HAVE A MERRY TIME

Saw Everything in Richmond and Then Feasted at the Reservoir Park.

DID NOT MAKE MANY SPEECHES

President Roche Says They Invited Themselves, but Were Warmly Greeted.

Members of the American Association of Traveling Passenger Agents, 100 strong, took Richmond by storm yesterday, and thereby rounded off in pleasant fashion a week of strenuous convention work at the Jamestown Exposition. The party reached the city shortly before noon, coming in on the Norfolk and Western Railway, and then rushed out to fall upon the big and hospitable shoulders of a reception committee, composed of many dignitaries. Within a few minutes the railroad men were spinning around town on special cars, winding up at the Idlewood skating pavilion, where a delightful luncheon was served. Leaving there for the Jefferson Hotel, they cut out the formal ceremonies and made merry according to the individual bent of mind.

Speeches Short and Sweet.

The committee had given warning that if any speeches were made they had to be short and sweet. Mayor McCarthy, who welcomed the visitors, observed this rule religiously. Mr. E. B. Pope, the retiring president, who responded, said he had been properly tipped off, and that he would merely express the thanks and appreciation of the association, being mindful of the fact, too, that if he undertook to speak of Richmond's charms he might exceed the speed limit and side-walk something at the city.

President M. J. Roche, who, in private life, is the traveling passenger agent of the Rio Grande and Western, with headquarters at Portland, was forced to give near the head of the parade. The new president, who is a graceful talker, was at some disadvantage, for he had to handle much in limited time, but he did his part magnificently. He was very much like Major Delmar; when he got started he did not seem to be able to stop, and nobody called him down, for his speech was good and the crowd applauded. Just about the time he concluded the big parade, he rolled out whatever else it is called, rolled out melody with a sudden crash, and when the visitors had done justice to the excellent luncheon, they seized the ladies and began to dance.

West All Over the City.

For an hour or more the party remained at Idlewood, after which the special cars left for the Jefferson. There was much doing in the afternoon. In the morning the reception committee led the way to St. John's Church, a place where all strangers want to see, and then out to Hollywood. On the trip the passenger men got a good idea of the business of the city, and not a few of them were surprised at its magnitude.

"It seems to be a very big city," said President Roche, "but no invited guest ever received more cordial greetings. We shall go away with many pleasant memories, and hereafter when people ask about Richmond, we shall certainly tell them it is one of the garden spots of the earth."

The visitors scattered somewhat in the afternoon, many leaving then and others remaining over until nearly midnight.

He received $20 for their delivery.

RETURNS TO-MORROW.

Mr. Charles I. Gunt Was Not Needed by Grand Jury.

After an absence of several days, Mr. Charles I. Gunt, manager of the city to-morrow, before he left Richmond last Sunday Mr. Gunt arranged to be informed promptly in the event of any emergency. He was called by the grand jury investigating the City Home wood contract matter. On Thursday the jury called for Mr. Gunt, and he was immediately communicated with him over the long distance telephone at Newbern, N. C.

Mr. Gunt was prepared to return at once to Richmond when later information was received that the jury, after Mr. Gunt thereupon decided to complete his trip, returning to-morrow.

COMMISSIONER REED QUILTS.

Police Commissioner W. T. Reed, of Clay Ward, who has moved to Lee, a fact which was mentioned in the newspapers, notified Mayor McCarthy yesterday to that effect, and a joint meeting of the city and county boards will be held to elect his successor. In all probability there will be a number of candidates. As far as is concerned, almost a dozen were mentioned at the City Hall yesterday afternoon.

AMERICAN BREAKS BALLOON RECORD

were stored in the basket, and a number of different instruments for testing purposes were carried.

According to a long distance telephone message received here this afternoon the United States Signal Corps Balloon No. 10, piloted by J. C. McKoy and Captain C. D. F. Chandler, was sighted at 1 o'clock this afternoon in the mountainous country at Beech Hill, Va., approximately 450 miles from St. Louis.

Beech Hill is in Mason county, among the foothills of the Alleghenies, and less than forty miles away. To cross them is considered impossible by aeronauts, and the balloon, it is supposed, would be forced to a landing soon.

It was announced at the Aero Club that Aeronauts McKoy and Chandler had won the Lahn cup for long distance flight when they passed over Gallipoli, Co. to-day.

The international record, established by Lieutenant Lahn last year in Europe, was 402 miles on a straight line.

CONNECTICUT PARTY CAPTURED THE TOWN

Governor Woodruff and Foot Guards Have Parade, Reception and Ball.

GIVEN A CORDIAL GREETING

Thousands Cheer Continentals as They March With the Blues, Social Functions.

Governor R. S. Woodruff, staff and party, of Connecticut, having as their special escort two companies of the Governor's Foot Guards, a famous military organization of that State, spent yesterday in Richmond, en route home from the Jamestown Exposition. They were tendered a reception by the Governor and Mrs. Swanson at the Mansion last night, and a ball at the Masonic Temple, later by the Richmond Light Infantry Blues.

The Foot Guards, accompanied by two bands, arrived early in the morning, and the Governor and his staff and immediate party came in about noon. The soldiers went to the Jefferson and the Governor's party to Murry's, where forty rooms had been engaged in advance.

The Connecticut people went over much of the city in street cars and carriages earlier in the day, and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon there was a street parade of the Foot Guards and the Blues, which furnished an imposing spectacle. The line formed in front of the Commonwealth Club, on Franklin street, and marched to the Capitol Square, by way of the Jefferson Hotel, from the balcony of which it was reviewed by Governor and Mrs. Woodruff, Governor and Mrs. Swanson, and a large number of prominent visitors and residents. Both the executives were attended by a number of their staff officers, and the scenes about the Jefferson were at once brilliant.

Blues Led the Way.
The Blues led the line of march, all three companies having turned out under command of Major E. W. Bowles, with members of his staff mounted. The Blues Band came next in their numerical order. The Foot Guards had with them two fine bands, one marching at the head of each company. They made a splendid showing. Company No. 1 was commanded by Major Louis B. Chaney, of Hartford, and No. 2 by Major Smith G. Weed, of New Haven. The Blues and the "Foot Guards" showed up exceptionally well, and were cheered enthusiastically all along the line of march. The companies disbanded in the Capitol Square, and after the soldiers broke ranks they enjoyed seeing more of the city before preparing for the evening functions at the Mansion and the Temple.

All Highly Pleased.
The visitors appeared to greatly enjoy the stay in Richmond, and they said many nice things concerning the city and her people.

The Foot Guards left about midnight for Washington, where they will spend to-day. The Governor and his party will leave this morning and will also stop over in the capital city, the entire party leaving there for Hartford late to-morrow.

Mayor McCarthy and a large number of city officials and prominent Richmond people reviewed the military parade from the Jefferson Hotel yesterday afternoon, and they all appeared to enjoy the fine marching and splendid appearance of the soldiers.

Reception at the Mansion.
Connecticut and Virginia mingled again in gracious fashion last evening in the Executive Mansion. When the Governor and Mrs. Swanson threw wide the doors of the Executive Mansion in honor of Governor Woodruff and his party, which included many pleasant and representative people.

Decorated in palms and roses, and festooned with smilax and asparagus ferns, the mansion smiled a most cordial and inviting welcome. Many of the Governor's staff were in attendance, and their gold-laced uniforms, contrasting with the scarlet and buff of the Connecticut Guard, added to the effectiveness of the picture produced by the lovely gowns worn by the ladies present.

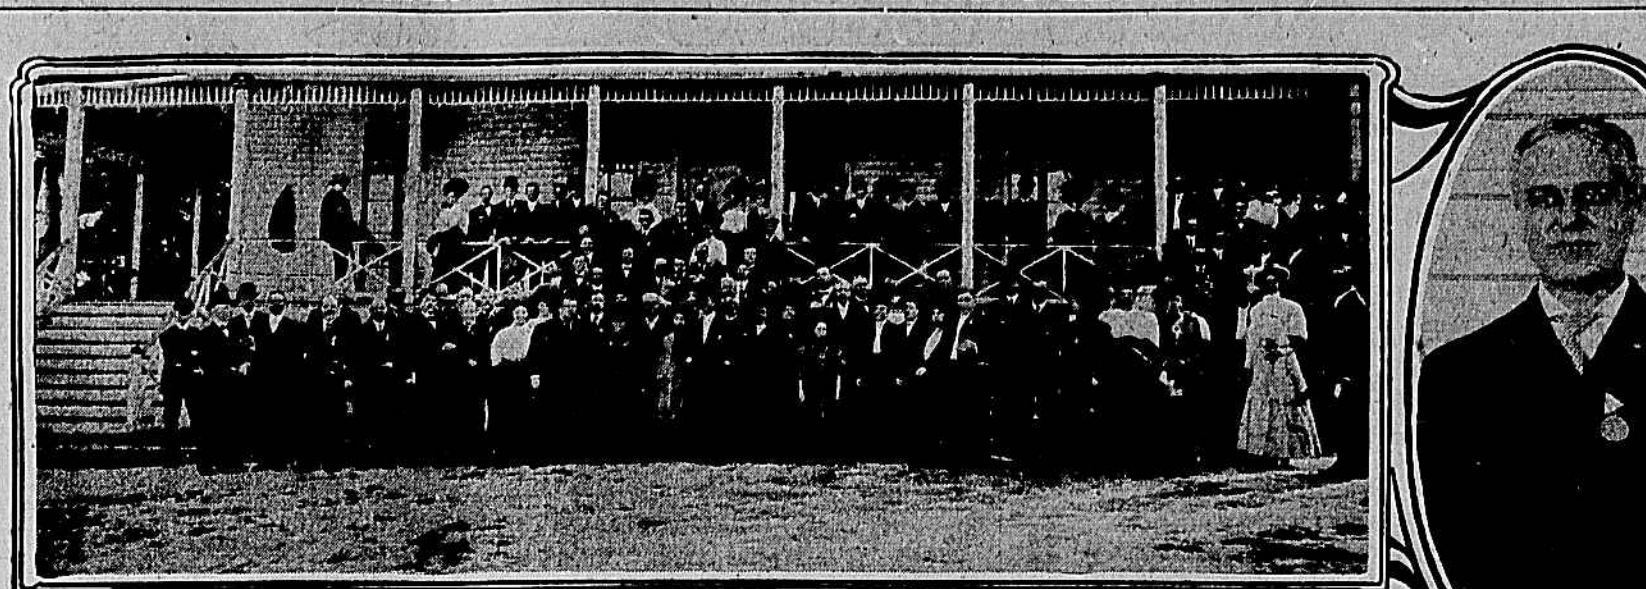

In the dining-room a basket in the center of the table held a profuse and graceful shower of the Beauties. Red silk-shaded candles were most effective and gaily baskets of either red and white flowers, and of hollyhocks, made an extremely pretty finish.

In the Receiving Line.
The receiving party stood in the small reception parlor. Mrs. Swanson was in white and held an arm bouquet of roses. Governor and Mrs. Woodruff stood next to the Governor of Virginia and Mrs. Swanson. Mrs. Woodruff being in pale blue, with pearl embroidery. Mrs. Arthur Glasgow, of London, England, wore black net, elaborately embroidered with silver. Mrs. Henry of New York was in mauve; Mrs. Dunn in pale blue, and Mrs. Sidney Buford, Jr., in her wedding gown of white satin, trimmed with point lace.

Members of Governor Woodruff's party met the welcome held out to them by Richmond people more than half way. They were full of pleasure over their trip, and expressed themselves as delighted with their glimpse of Richmond, and their visit to the home of the Governor.
